Canon USA Appoints Texas Imaging Systems, Inc.

Shake up in the document imaging industry

Austin, TX—After an extensive market search and significant due diligence, Canon, USA has selected Texas Imaging Systems, Inc. as their factory-authorized sales and service provider in Central Texas, for the “Full Line” of Canon document imaging equipment, including copiers, printers, multifunction document imaging products, high-speed production duplicators, wide-format printers and high speed facsimile equipment. Canon is known as the “World Leader” for Digital Color Imager Systems and the Related Software!

The appointment of Texas Imaging Systems, Inc., by Canon, the largest-selling brand of document imaging equipment in America, is the culmination of a 34-year commitment of excellence on the part of President Randall E. Davidson.

He was an owner and president of Uni-Copy Corporation in Phoenix, Arizona with offices throughout the southwest in the late 70’s and early 80’s. Later he and a partner formed Dahill Industries, Inc. in 1987, which included eight branches in Texas and Arizona. After the sale of Dahill (which has again been re-sold recently to Xerox Corporation), he formed Texas Imaging Systems, Inc., with offices in Austin and Lufkin and planned expansion to San Antonio and Waco.

“We chose Texas Imaging Systems based on the fact that they are a locally-owned company, and they have a documented history of unwavering commitment to customer satisfaction,” said Alexander Davidoff, District Account Executive of Canon. “That’s very important to us because, while we believe Canon has the finest and most technologically-advanced equipment in the marketplace, the nature of our industry demands strong customer support from a local vendor we can be proud of.”

Texas Imaging Systems, Inc. President Davidson, who is a CPA and resident of Austin, feels the distinguishing edge he can provide as a local Texas-owned company is a commitment to keep the customer happy at all costs. “We put the customer in charge of the relationship, and that’s hard to do when you’re a publicly traded company with several layers of management,” added Davidson. “We have local billing, no 800 numbers for service, a complete local inventory of parts and supplies, and local accountability.”
